WOMAN'S KINGDOM

TO YOUNG WIVES IN ELEGANT HOMES

By Mrs E [illegible] Edgerton [illegible]

[illegible] seek in the [illegible] the grace [illegible] luxury of children of luxury the [illegible] summoned by the mystic wand of love to preside over palatial homes, girls who by their surroundings by the current thought of the society in which they move are expected to aimlessly, idly drift through life. Home at last [illegible] claims the proud husband as the light streams forth from the elegant apartments and liveried attendants throw open the doors of the elegant boudoir to admit the beautiful bride. Home at last my queen and here are the keys of the palace. But how about the king?

This royal pair have entered upon an inheritance which confers luxury, leisure and idleness upon the queen but upon the king, anxious unremitting increasing toil. For the husband there is ceaseless labor and for him to labor is honorable. For the wife an entirely different law obtains. Is her womanliness to linger or rule an eyelid in any remunerative employment, word in any way to earn money, and the same circle of friends which applauds the energetic husband would almost ostracise the young wife. Why should we wonder when the young couple drift apart?

The young wife is left alone in the great mansion, every wish foretold every want gratified. Without the slightest knowledge of her husband's business or of the exactions and imperative demands of mercantile life she begins to wonder why Harry can't come home a little earlier, and then to pout a little when he is obliged to decline to take a drive when she calls for him an hour before lunch time, and then to indulge in torrents of tears and to beat a tattoo on the carpet with her little patrician foot when this same heartless tells her that he has an important business engagement which will render it impossible for him to attend the [illegible] Very well I know who will take me and so the young husband who has not lost his taste for the opera in the last [illegible] of this petted [illegible] goes reluctantly to business (to the business which he must attend to or all his [illegible] be jeopardized) and the pouting wife goes off and [illegible] one of her old beaux [illegible] just to spite Harry

Gentlemen you may laugh as much as you please at this [illegible] but [illegible] the study of political economy is good [illegible] shed tears a little [illegible] feel in business life would be very [illegible] [illegible] for my young [illegible] And if young [illegible] cannot see the relation between [illegible] the part of the husband, and the comfort [illegible] for the sake of future happiness [illegible]

It is always difficult for me to chide a young wife and so I [illegible] a portion of the blame to the husband

While doubtless [illegible] life as we have described is [illegible] yet many a husband is neglect to explain to the [illegible] condition of their business affairs [illegible] their wives

We [illegible] often [illegible] complaints of the [illegible] of women's work? and we have seen a weary man [illegible] is luxurious as his wife) [illegible] from the monotony of [illegible] merchant a grocer a druggist [illegible] manufacturer's life receive as welcome from the wife (who has shopped and called and sewed [illegible]) through the day dreary pursuits of her monotonous life

Ah woman [illegible] the [illegible] the lack of [illegible] the false idea that a woman [illegible] respectability by idleness

We have all known men so burdened with business cares and details that little time for culture for amusement for social life was crowded out while the wife suffered from ennui through mere idleness.

By a little [illegible] thought, almost any wife can become helpful. If by writing a few letters for your husband each day dry and full of precise detail though they be you can not only earn for your husband an hour's leisure but you can take the first steps toward effecting mutual interests that will cement far more firmly than any mere round of pleasure the marriage bond. Ah in this country of ours, where the wheels of fortune make such strange revolution where one day a man draws a prize, with house lands equipage stocks—the next a blank, with debt and poverty confronting him it is wise, it is sensible it is safe for the wife, who owns no [illegible] violable homestead right," to know as much of business and business methods as society will allow her to learn

One of the strange experiences of the women who are bravely meeting the prejudice and sneers cast by many of our society queens upon the "strong minded" is the following. Women in the flush of prosperity, with no thought or care for the morrow, will entirely ignore some earnest woman who is endeavoring to be helpful to her sex until suddenly she is confronted by some crushing sorrow, the strong, right arm on which she has leaned so heavily is still the toilworn husband is laid to rest in the village burial ground, and this petted, spoiled child of luxury is confronted with the awful alternative "work or starve" Who does she send for then?

Who does she apply to? Aye, to the woman, whom she had ridiculed, and she says "Come, now, you profess to do so much for women, help me give me work"

And then, if the so-called "strong minded" friend says, or even hints, that she must expect to serve an apprenticeship on small wages, because she has no business habits, knowledge, or skill, the helpless widow declares all women heartless

Think not, dear friends that I would send a single shadow into your beautiful home by any dismal prophecy, but remember that it is because of my great love for women that I beg of you, now, in these days of prosperity, to harvest some resources for the unknown future.

Watch your husband, and if you see the carelines deepening, and the gray hairs gleaming, whisper, "slowly, dear, make haste to be rich more slowly, there are things in the world more precious than the luxurious appointments of a home. Let us retrench if need be, far better a more humble home and fewer luxuries, than a desolate home and the separation of death."

There is a beautiful work awaiting many hitherto idle, useless hands—beloved work, with blessed wages. The golden heritage is all about you, will you enter the vineyards to day?

The Mansion House lot at Augusta was sold at auction, Saturday. It contained 20,060 square feet, and was bid off at six cents per square foot.

RECOGNITION OF STATE GOVERNMENTS BY THE PRESIDENT

Special Town (Mass) Correspondence Nov 19

In looking over my recently took occasion to comment upon a remark of the Courier to the effect that Gen Hawley in his late Faneuil Hall speech in Faneuil Hall What Gen Hawley said was this

"Both Gov Packard and Gov Nicholls are gentlemen and although I must say I feel sad Packard was elected I also maintain that no other way could the matter have been settled than by the recognition of Nicholls

What the Courier said was in substance that this sort of talk might have been all right in 1876 by recognizing Jefferson instead of Abraham Lincoln and so on that the Republican party would have been

I think the Courier accuses me of necessarily laying a trap for the Bangor Whig would seem by the Courier was an intelligent reader and also the note to see that the editor of the Courier was entirely familiar with the sentiments of the Republican party

When I have referred to that which I have been telling and read to you I have not to see as they really differ that the case is sufficiently similar to put to Gov Allen Free we give the Bangor Whig has made pertinent reference to the Journal that we cannot follow argument to its conclusion I want to argue

The Courier charges me with misrepresentation in that it makes it appear that Gen Hawley said that the President did recognize Nicholls as Governor—a fact was by this of which we complained Gov Packard is the Governor duly declared elected by the only parties who had any right to say about it His term was a little better than that of the Electors whose votes made Mr Hayes President and Gen Hawley and other went down there and finance on for an agreement by which it was which kept Packard in his place should be changed in to give Nicholls his place The President had to choose between governments would recognize the House recognize one or the other and did recognize Nicholls as Gen Hawley says though that excellent gentleman could not admit that he was Packard was duly elected

The Bangor Whig thinks that some words interlope the Journal office I have no matter in dispute

The Courier does not see that if all the electors had voted for Tilden in accordance with the pledge made by the President his letter of acceptance and adds There has been no better officer in the country and no reason existed for his removal better than the best Supreme Court as to the duties there does not decide which of two contesting governments the legal one is therefore entitled to Nicholls support guaranteed by the Constitution of United States Hon Wm

A RADICAL REPUBLICAN'S VIEWS

Henry Ward publishes the following letter to a New Hampshire friend who seems not to understand to be Hon William Claflin Secretary of the Massachusetts Commonwealth and one of Boston most prominent citizens

Dear Sir I am in receipt of your favor of the 15th inst and in reply would say that I am a Republican and have been ever since the party was organized I have always voted the Republican ticket and expect to do so as long as I live I have never scratched a ticket in my life and do not propose to begin now I have always been in favor of honest money and have never had any sympathy with the Greenback movement I am in favor of paying the national debt as rapidly as possible and of resuming specie payments as soon as it can be done without bringing on a financial crisis I am in favor of a tariff for revenue with such discriminations as will encourage home industry I am in favor of the election of United States Senators by the people I am in favor of a reform in the civil service and of the election of President and Vice President by a direct vote of the people I am in favor of the abolition of the franking privilege and of the reduction of the pay of members of Congress to a reasonable sum I am in favor of the reduction of the number of Congressmen I am in favor of the reduction of the number of Federal officers and of the reduction of their salaries I am in favor of the reduction of the army to a peace footing I am in favor of the reduction of the navy to a peace footing I am in favor of the reduction of the pay of officers of the army and navy I am in favor of the reduction of the pay of officers of the army and navy I am in favor of the reduction of the pay of officers of the army and navy

I think the Journal is entirely consistent and will observe that Gen Hawley expressly says that the President did recognize Nicholls as Governor—a fact was by this of which we complained Gov Packard is the Governor duly declared elected by the only parties who had any right to say about it His term was a little better than that of the Electors whose votes made Mr Hayes President and Gen Hawley and other went down there and finance on for an agreement by which it was which kept Packard in his place should be changed in to give Nicholls his place The President had to choose between governments would

The Silver Bill Before the Senate Finance Committee

WASHINGTON Nov 20 The Senate Fi[illegible] Committee to-day resumed consider[illegible] of the House bill for the remonetiza[illegible] of silver Amendments were pro[illegible] and in succession rejected [illegible] uniform vote of four against three providing for limitation of the legal tender power of the silver dollar to amounts of $10 $20 or $50 in any one payment An amend[illegible] providing that silver dollars shall be [illegible] for the same purposes as the existing United States notes or [illegible] was also voted down In lieu of the free coinage clause heretofore [illegible] out

An Amendment Offered by Mr Allison

[illegible] adopted making it the duty of the Sec[illegible] of the Treasury to purchase each [illegible] every month a sufficient amount of sil[illegible] bullion to enable the Department to [illegible] at least two million silver dollars per [illegible] the bullion so purchased to be [illegible] coined For this purpose he [illegible] authorized and directed to use any of the [illegible] in the Treasury not otherwise ap[illegible] provided the total amount of [illegible] States notes thus employed and [illegible] from the Treasury shall not at [illegible] time exceed five million dollars

The amendment is silent as to what dis[illegible] the department shall make of the [illegible] dollars, but in view of the foregoing [illegible] and as they are to be legal [illegible] for the payment of the government [illegible] the presumption is that they [illegible] be promptly paid out for current ex[illegible] if not for interest on government [illegible] These purchases and the coinage of silver bullion at the rate of from two to four million dollars are by the terms of the amendment to proceed indefinitely

was offered providing that after the enact[illegible] of the bill a commission shall be ap[illegible]pointed to confer with any similar commission that may be appointed by other Nations using the double metallic standard for the purpose of recommending the adoption by all such Nations of some uniform relation of value between metals

The hour of assembling of the Senate arrived before action could be taken upon this amendment, but the indications are it will be adopted at the meeting to morrow and that a majority of the committee will then order that the bill be reported to the Senate without any additional amendment of importance

Division of the Committee on the Amendments.

The committee were divided to day upon the main question as follows In favor of amendments restricting the legal tender power of the proposed silver dollar—Messrs Morrill Dawes and Bayard against them—Messrs Howe Jones Allison and Wallace Senators Kernan and Ferry who were absent, paired Al[illegible] amendment, it is understood, has been agreed to by all present except Jones who contended it would not practically af[illegible] the operation of the bill in any way or make it more acceptable to either of the two parties on the subject

PROF HAMLIN'S LECTURE Last evening a large audience assembled at the Art Association Rooms to listen to Prof Cyrus Hamlin's lecture Since the last meeting the hall has been greatly improved in appearance The walls have been tinted a delicate cream color with a chocolate colored dado, and the hall is now well ventilated In the ante-room the walls have been painted a chocolate color with a dark colored dado, and in a few days a number of plaster casts will be placed about the hall. Prof Hamlin devoted nearly the entire evening in giving a description of the church of "Saint Sophia," in Constantinople He spoke of the Oriental masons studying the effects of earthquakes on solid masonry and said that their buildings were so put up that they would withstand these shocks for a great many years. By the aid of a diagram which he had drawn on a black board he was able to point out the different features of the magnificent building in a very interesting manner. This church was founded in 325, rebuilt in 532-8, transformed into a mosque in 1453, and slightly renovated in 1847 by Fossati an Italian architect Prof Hamlin closed by relating a few episodes that he had seen while visiting the church

ENTERTAINMENT The antiquarian and character concert at the Union st Methodist church last evening was a very successful affair The attendance was large the vestry and hall being crowded to their utmost capacity After ample justice had been done to the viands on the well filled tables the following programme was presented Old Folks Chorus Antiquarian Choir Scotch song The Star of Glengary Mr L L Holden Reading Lady Macbett scene 5 act 1 Miss Sarah Laughton, Swedish song Miss Lizzie Kom and Mrs N L Bragg, Song "Where are the Friends of my Youth Mr F A Curtis Song of the Old Folks, Northfield Sherburne New Jerusalem Antiquarian Choir Reading The Old Deacon's Lament, Mr Walter Rice, Duett "Master and Scholar, Mr Curtis and Mrs Bragg, Reading "Some Old Friends (a medley) Miss Laughton, Song Three Students, Mr Haynes Songs of the Old Folks Ode on Science Auld Lang Syne, Antiquarian Choir Mr E E Holden gave a fine rendering of the Scotch song and was loudly encored The readings by Miss Laughton were well appreciated and showed the careful training and natural talents of the reader She was recalled three times by the continued applause The Swedish song by Mrs N L Bragg was very enthusiastically received by the audience One of the finest features of the evening was the duett by Mr Curtis and Mrs Bragg and in response to a hearty encore it was repeated The song by Mr Haynes was rendered with fine effect and on being encored he responded by singing Peter Gray The concert closed with Auld Lang Syne after which refreshments were served The receipts netted over $100

THE WORLD MOVES ON THE SAME.

BY REBECCA R. PIERCE.

It matters little if to-day
Our dearest hopes have known decay
And joy is but a name —
For, filled only by a few
The world with all its pomp its true
Doth still move on the same

And little doth it reck or care
For all the burdens we may share
Of sorrow's bitter pain
When the dear faces of our friend
We kiss and then take up the thread
Of our dull lives again.

And we also er the woes we bear
The face of Nature still doth wear
A smile as bright and glad
And all the same upon its way
The world will move if we be gay
Or if our hearts be sad

And so twill be when by and by
... and gone
From earthly scenes are gone —
... hearts will be as light and gay
And just as smoothly as to-day
The world will still move on

LUCY CARTER

ON FEEDING HORSES NEW HAY AND OATS

The question whether horses are injured by being fed on new hay and fresh oats has been made a subject of investigation by a French military commission who have been experimenting upon cavalry regiments. The Revue reports that the results of the experiments prove that the health of the horses was not essentially injured by new hay if they received the ordinary regulation ration along with other fodder. Some animals were at first rather less active and more quiet; they sweated more freely, and the excrements were somewhat softened but in a short time this ceased. In general the horses ate the new hay more willingly than the old. They retained the same strength and corpulence as before. The hair kept bright, the health perfect. Of 150 horses from 4 to 13 years old with which the experiments were instituted 37 gained in fitness and 18 in strength and endurance. Only 18 lost flesh and eight lost strength while 73 remained unchanged. A second series of experiments upon 150 horses gave the same results. On the other hand another series of experiments was less successful where 74 horses from 4 to 13 years old were fed exclusively with new hay, the quantity being increased until it equalled the regulation ration of old hay, straw and oats together. On this feed there was no real sickness but a general weakness, frequent sweat, loss of appetite, digestion disturbed, diarrhœa, relaxation, muscles weariness, etc. The decision of the commission was that new hay can replace old hay in the regular rations without injury and perhaps with advantage, but that of feeding them exclusively on new hay is injurious to the horses. Experiments were made upon 1800 horses by feeding them on new oats and were attended with favorable results, inasmuch as the animals nearly all increased in bulk and strength, from which the commission concluded that the new oats can be substituted for old ones with advantage, and, hence it is useless to wait two months after the harvest before permitting of the use of new oats. These experiments refute most positively the prejudice that still prevails in many places that feeding on new hay and oats is injurious to horses. On the other hand, it cannot be denied that horses, to which new hay is given, are frequently exposed to colic. The danger, is only present when the horses receive no definite rations, but have put before them as much as they can eat. In this case they not only eat much more eagerly and greedily, which can be so much more injurious, as experience proves that those very horses which are most inclined to the colic eat most greedily.—Industrial Blatter.

Lincoln, Sept. 26, 1877. 44

To the Honorable Judge of Probate for the County of Penobscot.

The undersigned, executors of the will of ... Rice late of Plymouth in said County deceased, respectfully represent that the goods and chattels rights and credits of said deceased are not sufficient to pay his just debts and charges of administration, by about twelve hundred dollars.

Wherefore your petitioners pray your Honor to grant them power to sell by license at public or private sale and convey the whole of the following described real estate of the deceased, as the residue would be greatly depreciated by a sale of any portion viz: All the real estate of which deceased died seized, to satisfy said debts legacies expenses of sale, and charges of administration.

Said real estate is the same described in a Deed recorded in the Registry of Deeds of said County.
